Headline:
Early low cloud clearing, leaving plenty of warm sunshine today.

Today:
Early low cloud will retreat back to the coast, leaving another fine day with plenty of warm sunshine, although hazier compared to recent days. It will feel cooler along North Sea coastal areas, especially with an onshore breeze. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Tonight:
Low cloud, hill and coastal fog will drift back inland overnight, becoming widespread by the morning. Otherwise, dry with some clear spells in the west. Another warm night for most. Minimum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Saturday:
Early low cloud will burn back to the coast by day to leave a mostly fine day, with some warm sunny spells, especially in the west. Feeling cooler on coasts. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Low cloud will continue to affect North Sea coasts on Sunday, otherwise fine and dry with sunny spells. Unsettled, with sunny spells and heavy thundery showers Monday and Tuesday. Cooler.
